Celebrating grandparents and friends at South Kingsville Pre School

Grandparents and important grand friends will be going back to kindergarten this Friday as part of the South Kingsville Pre School’s Grandfriends Day.

The children have invited their grandparents and older friends to join them for morning tea as part of the kindergarten’s Children’s Week celebrations.

“Some of our grandparents and grand friends are regulars at the kindergarten,” says SKPS Director Elissa Stafford. “But many of them have never seen what the children do here at kinder. We saw this as a lovely opportunity to invite them in and share some of the activities.”

“Education and pre-school has changed a lot over the years, but in many ways it is still the same, and we love hearing from our visitors about their experiences and memories of their early years.”

In line with the Children’s Week theme - A Caring World Shares – the SKPS Grandfriends Day acknowledges the important part played by grandparents and older friends in children’s lives.

Children’s Week is a national program recognising the talents, skills, achievements and rights of young people. It is based on the articles expressed in the United Nations Convention on the Right of the Child, highlighting play, wellbeing and protection.

South Kingsville Pre School is a community-based facility located within the South Kingsville Community Centre. The Pre School is one of the first in the area to offer the full 15-hour kindergarten program for its four-year-olds in 2013.
